The Dutch architectural bureau Mecanoo has won an international competition to create the design for a new campus of the National University of Science and Technology Moscow Institute of Steel and Alloys.

The Mecanoo design was chosen from among 14 entries.

The Dutch bureau is to present a plan for a campus covering 400,000 square meters of the 100-hectare territory outside of Moscow.

The land was provided for development by the Masshtab construction company, which also chose the winner of the competition. The new campus is to be built in seven to 10 years.
