

Investigative Agency Bill

December 22, 2010

The  Moscow Times

The State Duma passed in the third and final reading Wednesday a bill separating the Investigative Committee from the Prosecutor General's Office, RIA-Novosti reported.

The bill, introduced by President Dmitry Medvedev in September, defines the sphere of responsibility of the committee, which will handle the investigation of grave crimes, including murders and sexual assaults.

Medvedev is expected to sign the bill into law by Jan. 15.
