

RT: Assange Says He Expects Attacks for Airing Show on Kremlin-Run Channel

April 16, 2012

Wikileaks founder Julian Assange Espen Moe

Wikileaks founder Julian Assange said in an interview with RT on Monday that he expects attacks for airing a show on the Kremlin-run channel. Assange's interview program The World Tomorrow is scheduled to premiere Tuesday on RT. He said his team had complete editorial control over the show and said that most of what his guests told him "they could not say on a mainstream TV network." He said he had invited members of Russia's political opposition and from the government to appear on the show.
