

Nord Gold Q1 Down

By The Moscow Times

May 20, 2012

Nord Gold said Friday that its first-quarter net income dropped 30 percent year on year to $60 million after its gold output fell, but said it expects a strong second half of 2012.

"With production now returning to our forecast rates we anticipate a strong second half to the year," chief executive Nikolai Zelensky said in a statement.

In April gold output fell 10 percent to 156,200 troy ounces due to "short-term factors," resulting in a 15 percent drop in EBITDA to $114 million. The company aims to achieve production of 800,000 to 850,000 gold equivalent ounces in 2012, with capital expenditure of about $472 million focused on the Lefa mine in Guinea and bringing new deposits into production.
