The Moscow Times
30 YEARS
INDEPENDENT NEWS FROM RUSSIA

Fogs Disrupts St. Petersburg Airport

By The Moscow Times

October 14, 2012

St. Petersburg's main airport temporarily halted all inbound and outbound flights Sunday morning due to thick fog shrouding its runways.

Pulkovo Airport's press service said in a statement on its website that airport management took the decision to halt all flights from 8:40 a.m., citing adverse weather conditions.

In a separate statement released lunchtime, the airport's press service said the fog had cleared and that a normal service would be resumed as quickly as possible.

As of midday, at least 38 flights had been delayed by the airport's closure, including 24 departures and 14 arrivals, Interfax reported.

All flights heading for Pulkovo Airport on Sunday morning were rerouted via Moscow, Arkhangelsk or Tallinn, the news agency said.

Related articles:

- Transaero Seeks Leading Role at Vnukovo
- Baby Girl Born on Aeroflot Flight
- Foreign Ministry Accuses Air Berlin of Rights Violations

Original url: https://www.themoscowtimes.com/2012/10/14/fogs-disrupts-st-petersburg-airport-a18520