On Aug. 19, a motorist captured the aftermath of a horrendous crash on the Moscow Ring Road. The footage was only published online Monday, with the commentary of a passenger whose friend was killed in the three-car pileup.

According to the passenger, his car collided with a KamAZ truck after part of its wheel axle broke off and flew into the middle of the road. When his friend got out of the car to inspect the damage, a speed junkie coming up behind slammed first into him, then into a nearby car and then into the KamAZ truck.

The passenger's friend later died of his injuries, which included damage to his spine and internal organs, in a Moscow hospital. According to the passenger, investigators are pressing for a suspended sentence for the guilty driver.
