

Car Gets Swamped While Crossing Bridge in Northern Siberia (Video)

By The Moscow Times

October 01, 2013

The  Moscow Times

It is not uncommon to see frustrated drivers — especially in Russia — try and whip around traffic on the shoulder of a highway. The ire of their fellow travelers is something they are willing to accept if it means they can get to their destination a little faster. However, one truck driver in northwestern Siberia may have picked the exactly wrong spot to take a shortcut.

A dashcam video on Youtube, set to electronic trance music and featuring strong language, shows cars stopped along the pontoon bridge over the Nadym River because of deep water on the crossing. The water got a lot deeper, though, when a truck pulled around the other cars, causing them to start floating as the bridge partially sinks.

A YouTube video showing a car crossing a bridge over the Nadym River. Warning: contains explicit language.

Original url:

<https://www.themoscowtimes.com/2013/10/01/car-gets-swamped-while-crossing-bridge-in-northern-siberia-video-a28158>