The Moscow Times
30 YEARS
INDEPENDENT NEWS FROM RUSSIA

Today in History, Nov. 21

By The Moscow Times

November 21, 2013

The Sats Theater exclusively puts on plays for the entertainment of children.

Forty-eight years ago today, on Nov. 21, 1965, the world's first professional theater for children was founded in Moscow under the leadership of Natalia Sats. Sats played a crucial role in advancing children's theater throughout Russia and commissioned several masterpieces that achieved international fame, such as Sergei Prokofiev's "Peter and the Wolf."

Original url: https://www.themoscowtimes.com/2013/11/21/today-in-history-nov-21-a29792