Today in History, March 10

By The Moscow Times

March 10, 2014

A page-spread from the clergical work "Apostle," which was published in 1564. (Wikicommons)

450 years ago today, on March 10, 1564, the first Russian–printed book was published in Moscow. After a year of working on the text, Ivan Fyodorov and Peter Mstislavets finished the printed version of the clergical textbook, which was called "Apostle."

Original url: https://www.themoscowtimes.com/2014/03/10/today-in-history-march-10-a32803