Gazprom Says Gas Flows to Europe Via Ukraine Remain Stable

By The Moscow Times

May 05, 2014

Russian gas exports to Europe through Ukraine remained stable on Monday, a spokesman for state-controlled gas producer Gazprom said.

Russia threatened on Friday to cut natural gas supplies to Ukraine in June if it receives no prepayment in an escalating row between Moscow, Ukraine and the European Union over energy supplies.

Gazprom supplies about 30 percent of the gas consumed in Europe, shipping about half of that via Ukraine.
