Government Approves $6.3Bln Vnesheconombank Recapitalization

The government has authorized the recapitalization of state development bank Vnesheconombank, or VEB, with 220 billion rubles ($6.3 billion) from Russia's oil revenue funded piggybank, the National Welfare Fund, VEB said in a press release Friday.

The transaction, which will see VEB receive 7 percent of the fund's cash reserves, was approved by the government on Thursday. The boost will give VEB a capital adequacy ratio of from 11 to 12 percent at the end of 2014, the bank said.

Vnesheconombank, a corporation chaired by Prime Minister Dmitry Medvedev, has long been seeking recapitalization. Thursday's government decision is thanks to recently passed legislation allowing the cabinet to sign off on cash transfers from the National Welfare Fund to VEB. (MT)
