

Russia's Transneft Says Oil Supplies Reduced to Europe After Accident

By The Moscow Times

April 27, 2015

Russian state-owned oil pipeline monopoly Transneft was quoted on Monday as saying deliveries of Russian oil to Europe via the Druzhba pipeline had been reduced because of an accident in neighboring Belarus.

RIA news agencies quoted the company as saying that supplies could be restored later on Monday but that it may fail to meet its supply plan for April. It said the company would in May compensate for any losses.

Original url:

<https://www.themoscowtimes.com/2015/04/27/russias-transneft-says-oil-supplies-reduced-to-europe-after-accident-a46113>