Dmitry Kamenshik, the owner of Moscow's Domodedovo Airport, was arrested on Thursday as part of the investigation into the 2011 terrorist attack on the airport.

He has been charged with providing unsafe services that led to one or more deaths, the Meduza news website reported.

On Jan. 24, 2011, a terrorist attack on Domodedovo Airport killed 37 people and injured 170. Kamenshik had earlier claimed that he could be arrested.
