

Get Out Your Green! It's Irish Week in Moscow!

By Ruth Moore

March 17, 2016

Pour the Guinness, pull out your green top hat and practice saying "Ah, it'll be grand." That's right, Irish Week is upon us, and Moscow is bursting with events to celebrate the Emerald Isle. This is the fifth time Irish week has been held in Moscow, and the celebrations hold a special significance this year, since 2016 is the 100th anniversary of the Easter Rising that triggered the War of Independence and eventually led to the establishment of the Irish Free State.

Irish Film Festival

For film buffs

Alongside the musical and dance festivities of Irish Week, the Karo 11 Oktyabr Cinema on Novy Arbat will be hosting the 9th annual Irish Film Festival. All films will be shown in English with Russian subtitles. Many of the films in the festival will be premiering for the first time in Russia, including the Academy Award nominated Canadian-Irish film, "The Room." Other highlights include "Brooklyn," "Pursuit" and "Michael Collins."

Karo 11 Oktyabr Cinema. irishweek.ru/film. 24 Ulitsa Novy Arbat. Metro Arbatskaya, Smolenskaya. March 16–27.

St. Patrick's Day Parade

Join the parade

For more than 20 years, Moscow's Irish community and Irish enthusiasts have been celebrating St. Patrick's Day by participating in an enormous parade, this year through Sokolniki Park. Don your greenest outfit, get your friend to draw a wonky shamrock on your cheek and enjoy the music, dancing and carnival atmosphere this Saturday. Musicians and dancers will lead the parade, which is expected to attract up to 15, 000 participants.

Sokolniki Park. Sat., March 19 at noon.

St.Patrick's Day & Night

Irish music marathon

If you're not too exhausted after the merriment of the parade, head to the biggest party of Irish week — St.Patrick's Day & Night. This enormous 8-hour music marathon gala festival is a veritable explosion of Irish music and song: folk and rock music, traditional Irish dancing, theatrical performances and video art. Performers include legendary Irish band Beoga, who were nominated for a Grammy in the "best contemporary world music" category, and Tintal, a Moscow-based folk and rock band whose musicians like to wear kilts and play bagpipes.

Izvestia Hall. 5 Pushkin Square. Metro Pushkinskaya. irishweek.ru/day-night. Sat., March 19 at 3 p.m.

Dance Irish

Facebook

Prepared to be wowed

Dance Irish is a unique concert which will allow you to immerse yourself in the world of Irish music and impossibly fancy footwork. For the first time, soloist dancers Fiona Stone and Peter Wilson, who have starred in both RiverDance and Lord of the Dance, will perform onstage alongside Irish folk group Beoga. They will be joined by performers from Russia's leading dance schools for the program.

Central House of Artists. 10 Krymsky Val. Metro Oktyabrskaya. irishweek.ru/dance. March 20 at 7 p.m.

Educational program

Learn about Irish culture

Several free interactive workshops will be held as part of Irish Week across the city. From trying your hand (or foot) at Irish dancing, attending a lecture at one of the city's bookshops or even playing some Gaelic football, there's something for everyone to enjoy. See the website for a full list of events and locations.

irishweek.ru/edu

Contact the author at artsreporter@imedia.ru

Original url:

<https://www.themoscowtimes.com/2016/03/17/get-out-your-green-its-irish-week-in-moscow-a48260>