

The Moscow Times Is Hiring: Business and Economics Reporter

April 27, 2016

MOSCOW

Business and Economics Reporter

The Moscow Times is looking for an experienced and committed business and economics reporter to create content across print and soon-to-be relaunched web platforms.

This is a full-time job based in Moscow.

Responsibilities

- Track news on Russian politics, business, economics
- Develop relationships with key sources
- Pitch stories to editors
- Write spot news and longer features
- Provide feedback and develop ideas within the team

Requirements

- Bachelor's degree or equivalent
- Advanced understanding of Russian business and economy

- Understanding of Russian politics
- At least two year's experience in journalism, writing or blogging
- Ability to write engaging, original articles quickly
- Good understanding of web audience
- Native or near-native English
- Excellent Russian
- Willingness to work flexible hours

Advantageous

- Experience in deep or investigative reporting
- Knowledge of state companies and energy markets
- Acquaintance with AP / Moscow Times style guides
- Multimedia experience

About The Moscow Times

The Moscow Times is the leading English language publication on Russia. Founded in 1992, we provide foreigners and internationally oriented Russians with balanced, well-researched journalism and practical information that helps them better understand Russia.

Deadline: 20 May 2016.

Send a one page cover letter and CVs to o.carroll@imedia.ru

Original url:

<https://www.themoscowtimes.com/2016/04/27/the-moscow-times-is-hiring-business-and-economics-reporter-a52691>