The Moscow Times
30 YEARS
INDEPENDENT NEWS FROM RUSSIA

200 People Rescued From Moscow Flooding

August 15, 2016

TASS

Emergency service workers in Moscow have evacuated 200 people stranded by flooding on the city's streets, the TASS news agency reported Monday.

Some 80 people were rescued from their vehicles on Kaspiyskaya Ulitsa in the south of the capital.

Similar operations were carried out on Ulitsa Akademika Anokhina in the city's south-west, and on Ochakovskoye Shosse in the west.

Heavy rains began in Moscow on Sunday afternoon, with more than half of the average rainfall for August hitting the city in a single night. The rain is expected to continue until late Monday evening.

Embed:

У природы нет плохой погоды #потопвмоскве

A video posted by Илья Шеленев | Москва (@ishelenev) on Aug 15, 2016 at 12:08am PDT

Embed:

И разверзлась твердь небесная и потоки вод обрушились на грешников! #москва #потоп #дорогонаработу #дождь #китайгород

A video posted by Василий Орехов (@basilionocelli) on Aug 15, 2016 at 1:33am PDT

Embed:

So you understand what's going on here today. #москва #потоп #дождичек #зачемяпошланаработу #юзао

A photo posted by Mary Bochkarjova (@ms_jigsee) on Aug 15, 2016 at 12:33am PDT

Embed:

Дьяченко поплыла. Дети зарабатывали, как могли #потоп #ливень #дьяченкоплывет #Благовещенск

A photo posted by Светлана Тюкалова (@svetatyukalova) on Aug 13, 2016 at 3:16am PDT

Embed:

#Малахитоваяулица #Москва #Afremus #фото_afremus #потоп

A photo posted by tvorchestvo_Ira Afremova (@afremus) on Aug 15, 2016 at 6:47am PDT

Original url:
https://www.themoscowtimes.com/2016/08/15/200-people-rescued-from-moscow-flooding-a54989