The Moscow Times
30 YEARS
INDEPENDENT NEWS FROM RUSSIA

These Celebrities All Have Side Jobs as Russian Computer Repair Guys

September 13, 2017

If it's been a while since you've thought about Zach Braff, then you haven't been online much this week.

On Monday, the actor who is most famous for his role in 'Scrubs' tweeted this picture.

Embed:

> Apparently in Russia I do computer repair. pic.twitter.com/aA70rKRl8Q
>
> — Zach Braff (@zachbraff) September 11, 2017

An expert who will fix your computer, set up your wifi, get rid of those pesky viruses and even help you with social networks, and looks like a youthful Braff – that sounds useful, right? So, it's good to know that he's just a phone call away.

And while the actor may have got the location wrong (the phone numbers point towards Ukraine, not Russia), he still managed to spark a flood of reactions.

Soon, people were replying with other Russian-language adverts, all of which featured pictures of famous people as would-be computer repair experts.

This guy – who is called Fedor and definitely not Bill - might be helpful if you have any Windows issues.

Embed:

> Either @BillGates does! pic.twitter.com/GojTGT4f2j
>
> — terbiyarchitect (@terbiyarchitect) September 11, 2017

When Ben Barnes isn't busy acting, he likes to call himself Nikolay and help people sort out their routers. He'll also give you a 30 percent discount.

Embed:

> You definitely not alone in IT@benbarnes pic.twitter.com/yEYeCXISzt
>
> — last_uniКоЯn (@freaky_nya_dead) September 12, 2017

Think your laptop may be cursed? Get help from someone who knows how to deal with all things supernatural.

Embed:

> Well, not only you. @JensenAckles too. pic.twitter.com/0P2lNWxNSU
>
> — Принцесса Феанор (@Death_feanor) September 13, 2017

You may remember Logan Lerman from the 'Percy Jackson' movie franchise. Give him a call, and soon you'll remember him as Dmitriy, the man who finally got your wifi to work properly.

Embed:

> Yeah, @LoganLerman also works sometimes ✖✖✖ pic.twitter.com/sdkre2V5Gn
>
> — Sveta (@frnkieromustlie) September 11, 2017

Tried to run an update and now you're just seeing the blue screen of death? Don't worry – Zach Effron lives right around the corner. He'll sort you out.

Embed:

> Not only you - @ZacEfron does it too✖✖✖ pic.twitter.com/xzBwCbLmoi
>
> — +Фортуна Мать+ (@Muser_NK) September 11, 2017

So there it is – proof that, if you're a man and look vaguely American, there are promising career opportunities for you in the Russian-language computer repairs sector.

And if that fails, you can always go into medicine.

Embed:

> Don't you know that you also cure impotence in Saratov, Russia? pic.twitter.com/J8DuPE4ptH
>
> — Angie Bonney (@gtr_ab) September 11, 2017

Original url: https://www.themoscowtimes.com/2017/09/13/these-celebrities-all-have-side-jobs-in-russia-as-computer-repair-guys-a58935