The Moscow Times
30 YEARS
INDEPENDENT NEWS FROM RUSSIA

Glazok: a Rural Russian Village With Its Own Website

February 05, 2018

Glazok is a quaint Russian village with its very own slick website. The village in the Tambov region 356 kilometers southeast of Moscow was founded in 1637.

Sergei Nugaev and Alexander Bratchikov, the founders of an educational project called "Circle," initially helped the 1,500 residents of the village develop the website as part of a distance learning project.

All photographs are by Polina Kochetkova. You can follow her on Instagram here.

Original url: https://www.themoscowtimes.com/2018/02/05/glazok-first-village-website-a60378