

Life-Size Chocolate Messi Hits the Field

June 27, 2018

Tatyana Makeyeva / Reuters

Confectioners in Moscow created a life-size chocolate replica of Argentinian footballer Lionel Messi to celebrate his 31st birthday last weekend.

It took bakers at the Altufyevo Confectionery six days to make the 60-kilogram sculpture, with the chocolate Messi standing on a football field made out of a cake.

Related article: Argentina Mocks Russian Gay Propaganda Law With Raunchy World Cup Ad

Bronnitsy, the town outside Moscow hosting the Argentinian team during the tournament, held a birthday party for Messi on Sunday, complete with the chocolate Messi. During the celebration, the football-field cake was carved up and eaten.

The Moscow confectioners proposed to give the sculpture to Messi as a gift, but the Argentinian Football Association politely rejected the offer.

Instead, the sculpture will remain on display in Bronnitsy.

Original url:

<https://www.themoscowtimes.com/2018/06/27/life-size-chocolate-messi-hits-the-field-a62014>