Russian Witches Cast Spells in Putin's Support (Video)

February 06, 2019

Russian witches and seers performed on Tuesday one of their most powerful rituals, "the circle of power," to pass on their mystical energy to President Vladimir Putin.

Dozens of people who claim to have supernatural powers stood side by side, reading spells in their effort to support the Russian head of state.

Self-proclaimed leader of the Russian witches Alyona Polyn said the main intention of the gathering is to enhance quality of life in Russia, the whole world in general and to support the president.

"We have gathered here to make the world better off through Russia," Polyn said.

"Come up with the greatness, power of Russia, direct the way of Vladimir Putin right and correctly throughout the word of mine," she intoned during the ceremony.Russian traditional culture has various mentions about people who were attributed to have certain magical powers and derive their strength from mystical sources.

According to Russian Health Ministry data, around 800,000 people earned a living from performing as folk healers, psychic mediums and other similar services in 2017.
