

Siberian Farmer Jailed for Stealing Herd of Horses

April 04, 2019

Pixabay

A Russian farmer has been convicted of stealing 27 horses from fellow farmers in the Siberian town of Buryatia, the district prosecutor's office announced Thursday.

The equine burglar was charged with stealing the horses from five other residents of the village, amounting to 1.1 million rubles ($17,000) in damages.

Related article: Man Suspected of Stealing 18 Tons of Chocolate to Pay off Debt, Russian Police Say

After selling 26 of the horses off, the thief decided to keep one for himself.

The court sentenced the man to four years in prison and demanded a 100,000-ruble fine after finding him guilty of large-scale theft.

Original url:

<https://www.themoscowtimes.com/2019/04/04/siberian-farmer-jailed-for-stealing-herd-of-horses-a650>

95