Moscow's Labor Day Parade Draws 100K Marchers

May 01, 2019

May 1 marks Labor Day in Russia, one of the country's major public holidays. Cities across the country hold official parades, organized street demonstrations and marches on this day, which celebrates workers and laborers. More than 100,000 people attended this year's parade in Moscow, according to police estimates. Here's a look at the celebrations throughout central Moscow:
