Russian Premier League Hits Record Attendance in Season Kick-Off

July 16, 2019

The Russian Premier League kicked off its new 2019-2020 season this weekend with eight matches across the country. A total of 183,617 spectators attended the games, making it the most-watched first round of football in Russia since the establishment of the league in 1992. Here are photos of the action:
