

Moscow Is Home to the World's Third-Largest Number of Billionaires

The Russian capital has 71 super-rich residents, behind New York and Hong Kong.

July 18, 2019

Moscow is one of the world's most expensive cities for ultra-prime property. Sergei Kiselyov / Moskva News Agency

Moscow ranks third among the world's cities for its number of billionaire residents, after New York and Hong Kong, according to a recent study from real estate agency Savills.

Forbes' real-time ranking currently lists 607 billionaires in the United States, 99 in Russia and 71 in Hong Kong.

Savills said Moscow has 71 billionaires, New York 85 and Hong Kong 79. Beijing was next on the list with 61, followed by London with 55.

Related article: Londongrad Losing Luster as Moscow Luxury Real Estate Fires Up

“It is no coincidence that many of the cities with the largest number of billionaires are also among the most expensive in the world for ultra-prime residential property,” Savills said in the report.

Still, ultra-prime residential property values in Moscow have fallen over the past five years at the second-fastest pace after London, and now stand at $2,410 per square foot.

Original url:

<https://www.themoscowtimes.com/2019/07/18/moscow-is-home-to-the-worlds-third-largest-number-of-billionaires-a66474>