The Moscow Times
30 YEARS
INDEPENDENT NEWS FROM RUSSIA

Downshifting in Russia: Who's Fed Up With the Big City?

By Héloïse Bargain

August 11, 2019

While rural flight increases in Russia, some young families are moving in the opposite direction to live in eco-villages.

Meet Yulia and Vladimir who left St. Petersburg seven years ago to build their own place in an abandoned village.

Original url:
https://www.themoscowtimes.com/2019/08/11/downshifting-in-russia-whos-fed-up-with-the-big-city-a66804