The Moscow Times
30 YEARS
INDEPENDENT NEWS FROM RUSSIA

3 Russian Military Police Injured in Bomb Attack on Syrian Border

By Reuters

December 02, 2019

Officers were hurt in a blast from a homemade bomb as they carried out a routine patrol in Syria.
syria.mil.ru

Three Russian military police officers were hurt in a blast from a homemade bomb on Monday as they carried out a routine patrol in Syria near the border with Turkey, the state-run RIA news agency cited Russia's Defense Ministry as saying.

The bomb went off near the town of Kobani in Syria's northern Aleppo province, the ministry was quoted as saying, adding that it did not believe the lives of the injured servicemen were in danger.

Related article: Russian-Turkish Patrol Pelted With Molotov Cocktails in Syria

Russia and Turkey have been carrying out joint patrols along Syria's border with Turkey under a deal reached by Russian President Vladimir Putin and his Turkish counterpart Tayyip Erdogan.

Moscow, a staunch Syrian government ally, launched a military air campaign in Syria in 2015 to help Damascus recapture parts of the country from rebels, but has tried to limit the use of its own forces on the ground.

Original url:
https://www.themoscowtimes.com/2019/12/02/3-russian-military-police-injured-in-bomb-attack-on-syrian-border-a68436