The Rink is a upscale and green sports and kids activities zone for the whole family. It is located in Skolkovo Innovation Center, only a short drive from MKAD. In summer season the green zone has a football field, a grass lawn to play badminton, table tennis and outdoor chess. Read all about it in this blog.

This might be Moscow's most beautiful park, located in Kitay Gorod, behind the Red Square. The location is stunning and standing on the virtual bridge gives you the best pictures of Moscow's skyline, both night&day. You will enjoy an outdoor amphitheater, restaurants, a museum and a Media Center with several entertaining activities for young&old. Read all about it in this blog.

Gorky park changed from a quite boring standard park to a creative place full of year round activities and packed with cute food options in the park and along the river. And checkout the "new" playground with sand&water areas and tons of swings! Read all about it in this blog. This is one of the biggest parks in Moscow near the city center, on the North East side. We can highly recommend to discover the park by Velobike. This way you get quickly beyond the crowded amusement & food truck part which is at the beginning of the park. Read all about it in this blog.

There are many cool outdoor playgrounds throughout the city. Because it's not always clear where they are, we asked our friends which playgrounds they like best. Here we share the best playgrounds in Moscow with you per neighborhood and we also tell you where to get a drink or a bite along the way.
