

Climate Change Melts Permafrost, Transforms Landscape in Russia's North

October 19, 2021

Reuters / TASS

This alien landscape is one of the most visible impacts of climate change in Russia.

An airport once stood in this hilly area in the republic of Sakha in northern Siberia. But today, there are swampy mounds instead of a runway.

Original url:

<https://www.themoscowtimes.com/2021/10/19/climate-change-melts-permafrost-transforms-landscape-in-russias-north-a75339>