The attack on Crocus City Hall has become the deadliest incident in Russia's modern history. Its repercussions for Russian society are already being felt, with a spike in xenophobic attacks against people from Central Asia.

For this episode, we talked to Ruslan Suleymanov, an expert on Central Asia, about how the attack was possible in Moscow, despite the city's heightened security measures.

Russia on the Record is a podcast where Moscow Times journalists, independent experts and ordinary Russians reflect, analyze and explain what's going on in Russia right now.
