

Ozon Warehouse in Orenburg Region Hit in Drone Attack, Governor Says

By Reuters

August 23, 2026

The governor of Russia's Orenburg region said on Sunday that two industrial facilities were hit by drone debris, including a warehouse owned by Ozon, a major Russian online retailer. Anastasia Barashkova / Reuters

The governor of Russia's Orenburg region said on Sunday that two industrial facilities were hit by drone debris, including a warehouse owned by Ozon, a major Russian online retailer.

Governor Yevgeny  Solntsev said that the Russian Defense Ministry had repelled six drones over the region, adding that no one had been injured. He did not name the second damaged facility.

Ozon, Russia's second-largest online retailer, said in a statement on Telegram that the company had evacuated more than 300 people and that work at its Orenburg region logistics center had been halted.

On Saturday, Ukrainian drones hit an Ozon logistics center in Russia's Samara region in a strike which was the first on Ozon. The strike follows weeks of drone attacks targeting its larger rival Wildberries, which Ukraine has cast as part of a wider campaign against economic infrastructure underpinning the Russian war in Ukraine.

Russia's Defense Ministry said it downed 328 Ukrainian drones overnight.

Original url:

<https://www.themoscowtimes.com/2026/08/23/ozon-warehouse-in-orenburg-region-hit-in-drone-attack-governor-says-a93561>